

SCOPE OF WORK

Zylo Brand Feasibility Engagement

A one-time consulting engagement to determine whether Zylo can stand on its own and what that independence will take.

PREPARED FOR SR Publications

PREPARED BY Magsmen Strategy Consultants

One-Time Consulting Engagement

Why this engagement, now

SR Publications is evaluating the launch of Zylo, a new notebook brand, with the long-term intent of establishing it as a fully independent brand in the market.

Before committing further investment, SR Publications needs a clear, evidence-based view of:

- Where Zylo can realistically compete
- What specific gap it fills in the market
- What independence from the parent brand will require

THE CORE QUESTION

Is Zylo a brand worth building and what will it cost to make it truly independent?

OBJECTIVE

To assess the commercial feasibility of Zylo as a standalone brand and provide SR Publications with a decision-ready foundation whether to launch, how to position, and what true independence from SR Publications will take.

Where can Zylo compete and win?

What need can Zylo own?

What does independence cost?

Three connected workstreams

Each workstream answers a distinct question together they form one decision framework.

01

Feasibility Report

Where can Zylo realistically compete and win?

Assessment of the competitive landscape where the market is saturated by established players, and where genuine open opportunity exists.

02

Market Gap Analysis

What need can Zylo own that no one else serves?

A focused study of unmet needs and underserved segments in the notebook category, backed by evidence rather than assumption.

03

Brand Audit SR Publications

How much of Zylo's pull is borrowed?

A structured audit of how much early credibility, trust, and reach Zylo would inherit from SR Publications, and what independence will cost to build.

01

DELIVERABLE ONE

Feasibility Report

ANSWERS

Where can Zylo realistically compete and win?

WHAT THIS DELIVERABLE COVERS

A detailed assessment of the competitive landscape Zylo would enter identifying where the market is already saturated by established players, and where genuine open opportunity exists for Zylo to position itself without direct head-on competition.

KEY FOCUS AREAS

- Mapping of established players and their category strongholds
- Identification of white space with limited direct competition
- A defined, evidence-based positioning opportunity for Zylo

02

DELIVERABLE TWO

Market Gap Analysis

ANSWERS

What specific need can Zylo own that no one else is currently serving?

WHAT THIS DELIVERABLE COVERS

A focused study of unmet needs and underserved segments within the notebook category today pinpointing the specific gap Zylo is positioned to occupy, backed by evidence rather than assumption.

KEY FOCUS AREAS

- Segment-level review of underserved buyer needs
- Evidence-based validation of the identified gap
- A clear, ownable market position for Zylo to occupy

03

DELIVERABLE THREE

Brand Audit SR Publications

ANSWERS

How much of Zylo’s pull is borrowed, and what will independence cost to build?

WHAT THIS DELIVERABLE COVERS

A structured audit measuring how much of Zylo’s early market credibility, trust, and reach would be inherited from SR Publications at launch. This identifies exactly what needs to be independently built or deliberately separated for Zylo to stand on its own over time.

KEY FOCUS AREAS

- Measurement of inherited credibility, trust, and reach
- Identification of what must be independently built
- A readiness assessment for genuine brand separation
